THE UNIVERSITY

The Aga Khan University (AKU) is a pioneering institution of higher education and research that works to improve quality of life in the developing world and beyond. We educate leaders, generate life-saving knowledge and set an example that raises standards in the societies in which we work. We empower women and the disadvantaged, strengthen pluralism and partner with world-renowned institutions to address problems that affect millions of people.

A not-for-profit institution, AKU was founded in 1983 by His Highness the Aga Khan. As Pakistan's first private university, we paved the way for the growth of the country's private higher education sector. In the early 2000s, the University expanded to Kenya, Tanzania, Uganda, Afghanistan and the United Kingdom.

At AKU, students flourish in a supportive environment that embraces diversity, demands excellence and encourages leadership and direct engagement with real-world challenges. Our graduates go on to study and work at eminent universities and organizations around the world, and to make a difference in their home countries.

AKU is open to all, regardless of race, religion, gender or geographic origin. Two-thirds of students and half of faculty members are women. Admission is based on merit, and our needs sensitive financial assistance programme ensures that individuals from lower-income backgrounds are able to attend.

While we do not discriminate on faith, gender or national origin, we are selective in the students we accept. Our selection process varies by academic programmes, but a common criterion includes fluency in English.

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN PUBLIC HEALTH PROGRAMME

The Aga Khan University's Department of Community Health Sciences in the Medical College has launched the Master of Science in Public Health (MSPH) Programme this year.

The MSPH programme has been developed to meet the ever-evolving need for trained public health professionals in Lower Middle Income Countries (LMICs) of the region, especially Pakistan. With a large health systems workforce required in the public and private sectors as well as academia, it is expected that a high-quality innovative curriculum will develop public health leaders to manage and find solutions to the plethora of health problems the population of Pakistan and countries in the region face. Moreover, the COVID 19 pandemic has highlighted even more acutely that well trained public health professionals are essential in the developing and developed countries, proving the relevance of the programme globally.

The MSPH programme is recognised by the Higher Education Commission in Pakistan. This degree at AKU will provide you with:

- the breadth and depth of knowledge in the form of multidisciplinary integrated concepts, self-directed learning, inquiry, critical analysis and expression of thoughts to strengthen the model of competency-based education.
- a powerful platform to address population-based health issues and a global network to spearhead a career in public health.

TARGET AUDIENCE

- Physicians, dentists, nurses, allied health professionals preferably with experience in public health
- Health sector managers – public and private
- Public health professionals from other disciplines who have the required experience
- Health professionals working with NGOs and development agencies
- Participants from Pakistan and regional countries especially Eastern Mediterranean Region (EMRO) such as Afghanistan, Syria, Sudan, and other countries

OBJECTIVES

The programme aims to offer quality education for developing skilled professionals and leaders in public health in Pakistan and countries of the region.

The overall objectives of the programme are to:

1. Develop and offer a competency-based curriculum that is designed to address the burden of major public health problems and health system challenges in LMICs with particular reference to Pakistan.
2. Equip the students with knowledge and skills to systematically analyse and solve public health problems and address population health challenges with a focus on achieving equity in health.
3. Provide students with a self-directed learning experience using innovative educational methods.

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

This is a two-year programme comprising of 4 semesters involving coursework, and thesis. Teaching methods are interactive and diverse comprising lectures, tutorials, discussions, and e-learning, The programme has a continuous evaluation system including presentations, quizzes, and mid-semester and final assessments during each semester. Students will have access to the latest information through the internet and a well-equipped library and inter library loan service.

CLASS TIMINGS

Class timings for the programme have been attractively structured to meet the needs of working professionals. Classes will mainly run during the afternoons on weekdays allowing professionals to attend to their daily work. Some classes will be held in morning hours on weekdays or Saturdays.

PART-TIME PROGRAMME

The University offers candidates the choice to complete the two-year programme in extended time i.e. either in three or four years. Health professionals who wish to upgrade their qualifications but have other responsibilities and commitments, may benefit from the part-time programme. The Part-time programme is not a weekend programme. Classes and tutorials are scheduled over the weekdays. Part-time student takes fewer course credits in a semester than a full-time student per semester. For additional information about the part-time option, please contact the Programme Director and Programme Officer within the CHS.

CURRICULUM

The programme curriculum is founded on foundational public health knowledge and competencies in the profession and science of public health, and factors related to human health.

These are based on suggested competencies of the Council for Accreditation of School of Public Health and Programmes of Public Health (CEPH) USA. The curriculum is a mix of core and elective courses and developed in line with the requirements of the Higher Education Commission of Pakistan.

COURSE WORK

Each semester, three to four courses will be offered. These have been carefully chosen to equip students with the required skills. Course work comprises following domains in public health (i) Biostatistics; (ii) Epidemiology; (iii) Social and Behavioural Sciences; (iv) Health Systems; (v) Environmental Health Sciences and (vi) Contemporary Public Health Issues. There will be core and elective courses offered under each domain.

THESIS

The preparation of the thesis takes place in second year involving protocol writing, data collection and thesis writing, supported by a multi-disciplinary thesis committee. A thesis may employ qualitative, quantitative, combination of both, or any other acceptable research technique, data collection can be undertaken in student's hometown.

PROGRAMME RESOURCES

The Master of Science in Public Health Programme is run by a diverse and highly qualified team of faculty which includes full-time, part-time and visiting faculty from national and international organisations to provide a blend of theory and practice, and latest national and international trends.

Computer laboratory, unlimited free Internet hours, and access to AKU's considerable online library system are provided to the students. The students learn in the scholarly environment of AKU and freely access the various facilities provided by the University's Medical College to all students.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR GRADUATES

The programme offers a breadth of knowledge and transferable skill in different areas of public health. Graduates of the programme are at the forefront and may opt for public sectors at local, provincial and federal level, national and international private and non-governmental organisations, academia and research institutions. Careers include but not limited to administrative roles, field-based programmes, education and research.

STUDENT EVALUATION AND GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS

The following are minimum requirements for progression and graduation:

- A Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) of at least 2.50 is required at the end of each Semester for progression.
- A Grade Point Average (GPA) of at least 2.50 in all course work is required for graduating from the programme.
- Successful completion and defence of the thesis.

Students should note that HEC requires a minimum cGPA of 3.0 out of 4 to make an application for a PhD programme.
