A Healthy Heart for Kawish

Kawish was born with a serious heart condition, and his survival was uncertain. With a mixed feeling of fear and hope, his parents brought him to the Aga Khan University (AKUH) for treatment. When he was just two months old, a timely surgery by a team of experts at AKUH saved his life. Today, he is healthy and full of hope for a brighter future.

Your generosity to PBS allowed Kawish to get the life-saving treatment which otherwise would not have been possible.

About PBS

Established in 2001, The Patients' Behbud Society (PBS) for AKUH is an independent charity dedicated to collecting and distributing Zakat and donations to deserving patients. Donating to PBS enables mustahiq patients to receive world-class medical care from the best physicians and nurses at AKUH, its secondary hospitals and its outreach health network.

As a Shariah-compliant organisation, PBS ensures that 100% of funds collected are spent on patient care with zero administrative deductions.

PBS is certified by the Pakistan Center for Philanthropy (PCP) for ensuring transparency and accountability in its operations.
